Fashionable Diseases of Georgian Life: Literature, Medicine and Culture in the Eighteenth Century and Beyond

Thursday 2 June 2016, 4.00—6.30 p.m.
Seminar Room 8, St Anne’s College, Woodstock Road, Oxford

In this workshop, members of the Fashionable Diseases, Medicine, Literature and Culture, ca. 1660-1832 team will showcase some of their research, from the history of gout and rheumatism, to the roles of gender, class, and the health profession in the understanding and treatment of ‘fashionable diseases’.

Fashionable Diseases, Medicine, Literature and Culture, ca. 1660-1832 is a three year Leverhulme-funded research project at the Universities of Northumbria and Newcastle.

Full details of the speakers and presentations are available at:

www.diseasesofmodernlife.org

All welcome, no booking required. Seats available on a first-come, first-served basis. Drinks will be served afterwards. The seminar is hosted by the Diseases of Modern Life, Nineteenth Century Perspectives project funded by the European Research Council.